Wet Stone Wine Bar – Serving up salads and paninis during the day and small bites at night, this intimate wine bar is a relaxing spot for couples and small groups. Two tall tables at the front accommodate groups of 6, where parties congregate to share plates of swiss gruyere, hummus and bruschetta. Wines are served by the glass, but fresh, lightly-sweetened water in flavors like blueberry-mint might lure some patrons away from the alcohol.

Taka - A sleek, simplistic dining space dramatizes the artful presentations of traditional Japanese and fusion dishes. Table space and 15-seat sushi bar fill fast with hungry lunch and dinner crowds share sushi and sashimi creations, including house special items like oyster dynamite. Aside from sushi, guests can choose from an array of American inspired entrees. Aside from seafood, chefs prepare the popular filet mignon with Asian seasonings.
